

CLINICAL ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF REAL ESTATE
NYU School of Professional Studies
Schack Institute of Real Estate

The NYU School of Professional Studies Schack Institute of Real Estate (NYUSPS Schack) invites applications for, a full-time non-tenured faculty position beginning January 1, 2018. The rank of the position will depend on experience and qualifications. The Institute currently has a particular interest for a candidate with a finance or related background.

Faculty appointments are for nine months, and are renewable based on performance. Full-time faculty are active contributors to the research and pedagogical missions of the Institute and are expected to teach three degree courses per semester. Faculty with significant administrative or research appointments may have a reduced teaching load. In addition to teaching, each faculty member assists with student advisement and activities, curriculum planning, applied research, mentoring adjunct faculty, and nurturing industry relationships.

The NYUSPS Schack Institute is among the largest and most prestigious educational entities dedicated to the real estate and construction industries and offers three Master of Science degrees and a growing Bachelor of Science in Real Estate degree. The graduate degrees include: the M.S.in Real Estate; the M.S. in Construction Management; and the M.S.in Real Estate Development.

The successful candidate will hold a doctorate or other terminal degree (ABDs will be considered), preferably in economics, applied economics, urban economics, finance, real estate, or a related field. Ideal candidates will have relevant industry experience and a record of excellence in teaching in a selective university environment.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (NYUSPS) Schack Institute of Real Estate was founded in 1967 at the initiative of prominent members of the New York City real estate community, who encouraged NYU to establish an academic center that would provide a world-class education for industry professionals. Nearly 50 years later, the Schack Institute is at the forefront of real estate education and is recognized globally as one of the world's leading centers of real estate research and pedagogy. Across the Institute's graduate degree programs—notably the MS in Real Estate, the MS in Construction Management, and the MS in Real Estate Development—as well as a rapidly expanding undergraduate degree program, enrollment has grown to nearly 1,000 full- and part-time students from across the United States and nearly 50 other countries. In addition to its flagship degree programs, thousands of working professionals enroll in the Schack Institute's executive education, diploma, and career advancement programs each year. An anchor of real estate academia's engagement with industry, the Institute is home to the REIT Center, the Center for the Sustainable Built Environment, and the newly established Urban Lab. In addition, the Institute hosts national industry events, including annual conferences on real estate capital markets and the REIT sector. Under the direction of the Schack Institute's faculty, ongoing applied research at the Institute spans an exceptional range of issues in real estate development and investment, urban economics, and market structure and regulation.
